

100 Years ago in The American Mathematical Monthly

Miss OLIVE HAZLETT, who has just finished her work for the doctorate at the University of Chicago, has returned to her home in Boston. She holds a traveling scholarship from the Association of Collegiate Alumnæ, which she had hoped to use in Europe during the coming year, but war conditions may make this impracticable.

After the present year the College Entrance Examination Board will conduct all entrance examinations for Yale, Princeton, and Harvard Universities. In view of this greatly increased scope of the Board's work, it is anticipated that 10,000 candidates will be dealt with in the June, 1916, examinations.

[The CEEB is now known as the College Board, and is best known for its SAT and AP exams. -Eds.]

Excerpted from "Notes and News" 22 (1915) 286-288.